The first meeting I ever saw him at was in a little old shanty that had been abandoned by a saloon-keeper. Mr. Moody had got the place to hold the meeting in at night. I went there a little late: and the first thing I saw was a man standing up, with a few tallow candles around him, holding [a young African-American boy], and trying to read to him the story of the Prodigal Son; and a great many of the words he could not make out, and had to skip.

The background is a solid teal color. Overlaid on this background is a white line-art illustration of a cityscape. The buildings vary in style, including classical structures with columns and pediments, modern skyscrapers, and a prominent clock tower. The lines are thin and white, creating a subtle, decorative pattern behind the text.

After that meeting was over, Mr. Moody said to me, "Reynolds, I have got only one talent: I have no education, but I love the Lord Jesus Christ, and I want to do something for Him: and I want you to pray for me." I have never ceased from that day to this, morning and night, to pray for that devoted Christian soldier.
